Handling the Mails.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who rode from this city to Chicago in a postal car, writes as follows:

A postal car is so arranged that everything is right at hand. To be sure, that is convenient; but it makes things very much crowded. There are boxes for letters and boxes for papers, and there are racks for pouches and racks for bags. Then there is a store-room in front. Some of the boxes are for special cities, and some are for railroads. So it is with the pouches and bags. The pouches for the letters are hung by themselves on hooks with the tops open. Ditto the sacks for the papers. As soon as the wagon-load of mail arrives at the car from the post-office it is dumped out of the pouches, and the clerks immediately begin to "throw" it. At the post office the people arrange the letters by States. This is all the start the clerks on the cars get. Each box in the car represents either a city or a railroad, and the letters must all be placed in the proper boxes to reach the cities for which they are destined, or the railroad connection that will give the quickest delivery.

In order to correctly "throw" a State the man so doing must know the location of every city, town, village, hamlet, railroad station and crossing in every county of that State. He must be able to detect the second he sees it a letter that is misdirected. Misdirected letters are called "nixes." Accompanying each package of letters sent from the post-office is a slip of paper with the date stamped upon, and the name of the letters are printed thereon. There is also a number stamped on the slip, and that number represents the clerk at the post-office who put up the package. In case a nixe is found in a package of letters, it is returned by the clerk of the car, who stamps the date of the nixe slip, writes thereon the "misdirection," and signs his name to it. Each nixe is charged against the clerk at the post-office who permits it to go to the car, and at the end of the month there is a grand hauling over the coals. If too many nixes are set opposite a man's name in a given time he is relieved of the responsibilities of his position. Last night thirty nixes were detected on one car, and one of them was an official letter written from the Cincinnati Post-office to a postmaster in a town that doesn't exist.

It may be reasonable to suppose that a man of ordinary intelligence could learn all of the little towns and so forth in one or two States, but when it comes to twelve States it would seem to be an impossibility, but Mr. McGinnis, the man with the best memory in the mail service, can locate every town, railroad station or crossing in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Nebraska, Dakota, Montana, California, Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia. The rapidity with which he works when "throwing" mail is astonishing. He picks up a handful of letters, and before you imagined he had glanced at it to see where it was destined for he has read the town, county and State and chucked it into the box it belongs in. So familiar is he with the locations of the boxes he does not have to look up to see where the place is the letter goes, but gives it a flirt in the direction of the proposed receptacle, and it alights in the right place, while he still has his eyes on the letters in the other hand. He throws mail matter as fast as a person could count for say half a minute, but at the end of that time the counter would get left and McGinnis would be going on. There were 120 different pouches on the car during the night, for different roads and cities, and it was necessary that Mc-

Ginnis should keep in his mind just exactly where each pouch was for, what was in it, and when to look it up.

While throwing letters he was continually being asked by the others where this, that and the other town was, or where such and such a paper or letter would go, and he answered each question before it was well out of the interrogator's mouth, never stopping in his work for a moment.

Mr. McGinnis and his crew handled 161 sacks of mail on their trip last night.

We ran through a most violent rain-storm, but McGinnis never lost himself, and could at all times tell just where we were by the motion of the car. He has been in the service for eight years, and is the oldest clerk in his division—that is, in service, for he is a young man in years.

I saw him do something that it is claimed no other man in the service can do, and that was to throw a State without having the boxes labeled. He had the State of Michigan to throw, and he threw it into the boxes used for the State of Kentucky. Thus, he had to improvise boxes as he went along, and had to remember just where he had put over a thousand letters.

After the letters are thrown into the boxes they are all taken out and tied in bundles, and chucked into their respective pouches. Care must be exercised not to throw a bundle into the wrong pouch, and it is a mystery how many one man can retain in his memory, which is which and which isn't, with so many to choose from. But McGinnis can stand in any part of a car and throw a bundle to any other part without a miss and without looking.

Understanding Men's Natures.

About mid-afternoon yesterday a citizen who pulls down the scales at 196 pounds descended the first flight of stairs beyond the post-office in just the same manner that a bag of oats would have chosen, and when he brought up at the foot he was in no frame of mind to chip in anything for the heathen in Africa. The first citizen who arrived on the spot knew what his duty required of him on such an occasion, and he smilingly remarked:

"I don't believe you can improve on the old way!"

The second citizen passing was in a hurry; but he knew that he must halt and inquire:

"Like that any better than coming down the way the rest of us do?"

The third citizen had business at the post-office, but he turned aside, cleared his throat, and remarked:

"Evidently fell down stairs? Curious how it sets the blood to circulating! Some of you had better see if his nose is broken—good-bye!"

There was a fourth spectator, and he slowly entered the door-way, bent over the victim, and remarked:

"I'd have given a dollar to see him come down! He's one of the sort who bump every stair!"

The fifth man was about to add his mite when the victim rose up. His elbows were skinned, his nose barked, his coat torn and his back sand-papered the whole length, but he was a man who had traveled. He knew that everybody in the crowd was hoping to see him jump up and down and shake his fists, and paw the air, and to hear him declare that he would lick all the men who could be packed in a ten-acre lot, and therefore he brought a sweet smile to his face, lifted his hat like a perfect gentleman, and limped up stairs with the bland remark:

"Stubbed my toe as I came in the door, you know, and came near falling in a heap."—Detroit Free Press.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

TUESDAY EVE., SEPT. 26, 1882.

TERMS:—The EVENING BULLETIN is published daily, and served free of postage at 6 cents per week; 25 cents per month; 75 cents per three months; $1.50 per six months, and $3 per year, payable in advance.

THE EVENING BULLETIN HAS A LARGER CIRCULATION IN THIS CITY, CHESTER AND ABERDEEN, OHIO, THAN ANY OTHER PAPER PUBLISHED IN MAYSVILLE.

Corn declined four cents at Chicago, but it is thought the price will go up again.

FOLGER'S nomination for Governor of New York is a triumph for Conkling and a blow in the face for Blaine.

SHARP frosts are reported in Wisconsin and much damage is said to have been done to corn, fruits and vegetables.

At the primary election held in Montgomery county, on Saturday, Adams won the nomination for congress over Kendall by a majority of over two hundred votes. This decides the contest and Adams is the Democratic candidate in the Tenth district.

S. W. DORSEY evidently does not expect to be safely landed in the penitentiary for one year at least, as he has rented an elegant mansion in Washington, and in the meantime will go right along discharging the duties of Secretary of the National Republican Committee.

THE Lexington Transcript says: Next year the Covington fair and race track will draw largely from Central Kentucky. One of the officers of the Harrison county association gives it as his opinion that between Covington, Lexington and Maysville, the other county institutions will be swallowed up in a year or two more.

SECRETARY FOLGER is not over confident of his election as Governor of New York and to be on the safe side has decided to tender his resignation as the head of the Treasury department to take effect after the election in that State. It is said that John C. New has been selected to take the Treasury portfolio should it be necessary to make a change.

THE ordinance in force at Cynthiana to prevent the sale of intoxicating drinks on Sunday has been amended and now provides for the closing of all places of business on that day. As it stood it was regarded as unconstitutional because it made an unfair discrimination against one class of business men. Close one, close all, that is the correct principle.

The trial of Rev. H. O. Hoffman, of the First Methodist Church of Bloomington, for the seduction of Zetta Robinson, is now in full progress at Lincoln, Illinois.

The New York Press on Cleveland's Nomination.

The following is the substance of the press comments on the result at Syracuse: Truth says: "The Syracuse nomination shows the hand of Tilden," and thinks Slocum would have secured victory for the democracy, and that the democrats made a mistake in nominating Cleveland.

The Star, Tammany organ, expresses satisfaction at the nomination, and says Cleveland will get 60,000 majority in New York City, and 15,000 in Kings county.

The World says: "The demand for reform, and the general belief of the convention that Cleveland was fit to meet that demand, secured his nomination."

The Tribune says: "The nomination of Cleveland means hard work for the republicans, and there must be a united republican party to face it."

The Times says: "The result involves a surprising display of sagacity on the part of the democrats. The nomination of Cleveland is likely to prove one of exceptional strength and popularity. He will be a hard man to beat."

The Herald says: "The artful strategy of Gould is visible in the circumstances of Slocum's defeat." The Herald is silent on the wisdom of the nomination.

It is a queer story that is told of one of the victims of the Ashtabula Railroad disaster who recovered $17,000 damages for his injuries and immediately thereafter started on a general and comprehensive "spree" that lasted for four years. Now his wife brings suit against the liquor dealer who furnished him the fire water, claiming $25,000 damages because her husband was made an habitual drunkard and bankrupt.

THE following persons died at Vanceburg on Monday: Mrs. James Jeffers, Mr. Chas. Taylor, a child of Mr. A. McKay and Mr. Mason Parker, the latter formerly of this city.

CROUP, it is said, can be cured in one minute, and the remedy is simply alum and sugar. Take a teaspoonful of grated alum and twice the amount of sugar and mix it, and administer it as quickly as possible. Almost instantaneous relief will follow.

Lexington Transcript: The Ashland papers maintain an ominous silence concerning the new trial granted Neal and Craft. The people there have nothing to say on the subject, but it is reported that they look grim and determined when it is mentioned, and give other indications which bode no good to the prisoners.

MR. WM. C. EITEL, an old and valued citizen, died at his home in Maysville Monday at noon, after a painful sickness extending back through many months. He was about fifty years of age and leaves a family. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the German Lutheran Church, after services by Rev. Mr. Krueger, the pastor. The German Relief Society, of which Mr. Eitel was an honored member, will attend the funeral in a body.

THOMAS WILSON, Samuel Foster, and Charles Williams, the parties charged with robbing Ben Perham, last Saturday morning, had their examination before his Honor, Mayor January, Monday morning. The charge of highway robbery was dismissed, and the parties held to bail in the sum of $100, for their appearance before the next grand jury, on the charge of assault with intent to rob. Wilson claimed Newport, as his home, and Foster and Williams, Cincinnati.

CLARENCE CORNELIUS and Jas. Williams, the colored men who were arrested on the charge of entering the house of Mr. John Masterson and stealing therefrom the sum of $125, mention of which was made in Monday's issue, had their examining trial yesterday before Squire John L. Grant. Cornelius was held to bail for his appearance before the grand jury in October, on the above charge. Williams was tried on a separate warrant and found guilty of carrying concealed a deadly weapon, and his punishment fixed at a fine of $25 and confinement in the county jail ten days.

FIRE.

A Half Million Dollar Conflagration at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, September 25, 1882.—The Franklin Sugar Refinery, of Harrison, Havemeyer & Co., was partly destroyed by fire this morning. The buildings were filled with sugar in process of manufacture and ready for delivery. The loss will reach half a million dollars.

CRUSHED BY COAL.

Four Men Buried Alive in Maryland.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 25, 1882.—A heavy fall of coal this morning in the Kingsley mine at Lanoconing buried four miners including Beyers, the mine boss. The body of James Brehaney has been brought out and Lewis Cook another was taken out in a dying condition.

MEN OF MAYO

Driven From Their Homes by British Bayonets—Fifty Families Evicted.

DUBLIN, Sept. 25, 1882: The military and police of County Mayo have evicted fifty families in the last few days in the Barony of Erris, and the people have been ordered not to shelter them.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Miss Lou Hughes, who has been visiting friends in Maysville the past week, re-home to-day.

Mr. M. J. Bischof, left for Decatur, Alabama, this morning, to be absent several weeks. On his return he will bring with him a bride, one of the beautiful and accomplished ladies of that state. He will make his home here for the future.

Suicide.

Some time during last night Jerome Wood, son of Mr. John Wood, of Bracken, committed suicide by cutting his throat. The body was found in a barn on his premises near Germantown. No cause is known for the act. He was regarded as a steady and sober citizen. He leaves a wife and two children.

THE Lexington Transcript has been provided with a new dress and is out in an enlarged form. The improvement is very marked.

MR. HENRY SMOOT, shipped to-day to Hon. T. M. Gunter, of Fayetteville, Ark., four thoroughbred Cotswold sheep—three ewes and one buck. They were sent by express.

AN old farmer gives the following advice which is worth remembering and heeding, if you could make tobacco raising profitable: "As soon as you have touched a plant of tobacco with a cutting knife you must begin to watch it and care for it like you would a sick child, if you expect to make tobacco raising profitable, for a poor crop well managed from that on will bring more money than a good one poorly managed."

THE attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of Mr. L. F. Metzger, who has just taken the management of the business of Messrs. Smith & Nixon at their branch office lately opened in Maysville. Mr. Metzger, is a gentleman of many years experience in his business and is thoroughly reliable. The house of Messrs. Smith & Nixon is of more than forty years standing and one of the most responsible in the country; we know of no firm who more fairly deals with their patrons.

COUNTY POINTS.

GERMANTOWN

Very few from here attended the Maysville fair.

Miss Gertrude Pollock left Friday to attend Sayre's Female College at Lexington.

T. B. Hiles, of Rogers Gap, Scott county, is visiting his brother, W. W. Hiles.

Press Tyler, formerly of this place, but now of Alexandria, was in town last week.

Pete Rigdon, while working on Dr. Dimmitt's well, set some powder a fire which flashed into his face burning it severely.

Mrs. Burdette, of Lancaster, Ky., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Walton.

Rev. W. W. Spates, recently pastor of the M. E. Church, South, of this place, left for Sardis, his new charge, last week. Brother Spates and wife during their stay here had become endeared to many of our citizens and it seemed to be the desire of nearly all his congregation that he would be returned. Brother Spates was not only popular with us, but with other denominations and with many that belonged to do church.

GAS POINT.

News scarce.

Frost is expected soon.

Farmers are mostly through cutting tobacco. Several of our citizens attended your fair last Saturday.

Dr. Monahan talks of moving his saw-mill out on the Wabash.

The Gray Head by the Hearth.

A private letter from a lady who is spending the year among the peasants of the Tyrol, says: "The morning after our arrival we were awakened by the sound of a violin and flutes under the window, and, hurrying down, found the little house adorned as for a feast; garlands over the door and wreathing a high chair which was set in state.

"The table was already covered with gifts, brought by the young people whose music we had heard. The whole neighborhood were kinsfolk, and these gifts came from uncles and cousins in every far-off degree; they were simple, for the donors were poor: knitted gloves, a shawl, baskets of flowers, jars of fruit, loaves of bread; but upon all some little message of love was pinned.

"Is there a bride in the house?" I asked of my landlord.

"Ach, nein!" he said. "We do not make such a bother about our young people. It is the grandmother's birthday."

"The grandmother, in her spectacles, white apron and high velvet cap, was a heroine all day, sitting in state to receive visits and dealing out slices from a sweet loaf to all who came. I could not but remember certain grandmothers at home, just as much loved as she, probably, but whose dull, sad lives were never brightened by any such gust of pleasure as this; and I thought we could learn much from these poor mountaineers."

We remember a certain American house of the higher class, in which the venerable mother of the owner had her own boudoir filled with everything which could recall her long checkered life pleasantly to her in its tranquil old age. That room was the center of the great mansion; no guest entered the house without desiring to pay his respects to her, although only the most favored were admitted. The effect upon the young people who came to the house of this marked genuine reverence for age was incalculable for good. The new generation is always apt to be intolerant of those who are leaving the stage; apt, too, to slight their experience and opinions. If they do not find their parents honoring age, where will they learn to honor them?

Americans are usually affectionate to the aged members of the family; but they lack the tenderness, deference and care which the French show to them, and by which they bring heat and light into their colorless lives. It is not enough to give a neglected seat in the chimney-corner to the gray-haired mother or father; use such devices and innocent wiles as will make them feel that they have not lost their place among men; that the work which they have done is appreciated; and above all, that they still have work for others to do.

Fashion-Plate Waists.

Of modern "fashion-plate waists," Mary L. Griffin writes in the Woman's Journal:

"They are not after the model formed by the Creator; they do not represent the sculptured ideals of the old masters, which are supposed to be standards of beauty; they do not keep pace with the genius of our century, which is forcing us to recognize and adopt the natural and healthful as being also the most beautiful. No woman with such a waist can be anything but a dyspeptic, consumptive, distorted being. No woman with such a waist is fit for motherhood, if, indeed, it is possible to her. It means martyrdom for her and misery for her children and her children's children. A lady whose name carries weight throughout the length and breadth of our land has said: 'A fashion-plate is to me more pathetic than an obituary; it stands so often to the latter in the relation of cause to effect. The same philosophy applies to high heels and deformities in general.' May we not ask fashion editors to use their potent influence in the direction we have indicated, and in all directions which shall help women to reach a better and higher ideal?"

—The announcement is made that the Brooklyn bridge will not be open for traffic till July 4, 1883.
